

ABSTRACT

A bicycle electronic control device comprises a computer unit and a reset unit structured to provide a reset signal to the computer component in response to a non-contact operation.